

Benediction for May 28, 2017

God so longed to connect with His people,
That he walked and dwelt among us.
Called us his friends.

Experiencing joy and sorrow, pain and laughter,
He forever enchanted and transformed humanity;
Our lives and and our friendships.
Infused them with the divine.

So go forth to be true and virtuous friends to all,
Whether those you already call beloved,
Or those who too often walk alone,
They have been chosen for you.
And you for them.

May the perfect, eternal movement of friendship
of the Father, Son, and Spirit guide us,
This day, and all our days,
Into deep communion,

With the Almighty,
And one another.
